

Who We Are

The Gender-Based Violence Prevention Office is comprised of an interdisciplinary team; our staff compliment includes a co-ordinator, four student-equity program advisors and two social workers. Working with central staff and community supports, we build capacity for peer-education training in gender-based violence prevention (gbvp); we develop and implement guidelines, workshops, forums and resources for students, staff and schools related to gbvp, including challenging ideas, attitudes and behaviours, educating on healthy relationships, building an understanding of the roots of gender-based violence and promoting prevention building using an anti-oppressive framework, consistent with TDSB policies and procedures on Gender-Based Violence Prevention.
