7. Making your School Council Meaningful - Parent Engagement vs Parent Involvement

Are your parents really engaged in their children's learning? Or are they involved in the school's parent agenda? Many School Councils are busy with the work of involving parents in fundraising events and not so much with improving student achievement. Now is the ideal time to think differently about the work of School Councils. In this workshop, we will consider how to make your School Council more meaningful to your community by focussing on authentic engagement and accessing the two arms of the School Council mandate to build partner relationships between home and school.
